JOURNAL OF PROCEEDINGS
215th ANNUAL CONVENTION

The two hundred fifteenth meeting of the Convention of the Diocese of Rhode Island began with a reception and dinner at 5:30 p.m. on Friday, October 28, 2005, at Rhodes on the Pawtuxet, Cranston. The theme for this year's Convention was Church Growth – Getting Real.

Following dinner, Ms. Peggy Amatore, Director for Episcopal Charities, introduced the Hon. Scott Avedisian, honorary chairman of the Episcopal Charities Fund Drive for the past two years. He spoke of the tremendous work that Episcopal Charities has accomplished. Peggy then introduced the Bishop who announced that Scott Avedisian was the recipient of the Bishop Higgins award for his work with Episcopal Charities. Then, in a surprise move, the Bishop awarded another Bishop Higgins award to Peggy Amatore for her nearly 25 years as the Director of Episcopal Charities.

Bishop Wolf introduced the speaker for the evening, the Rev. Taylor Albright from the Diocese of Western Massachusetts who spoke on the subject of Congregational Development and Church planting.

Convention reconvened on Saturday, October 29, 2005 at 8:30 a.m. with a celebration of the Holy Eucharist. The preacher for the celebration was The Rt. Rev. David Joslin, Assisting Bishop.

Convention was called to order at 9:40 a.m. with prayer. The Chancellor noted that all clerical and lay delegates are entitled to voice and vote and that all Deputies to General Convention, all officers of the Diocese and all Chairs of Commissions of the Diocese are entitled to a seat and voice, but not a vote, unless they are otherwise members of the Convention. He also observed that the Convention is open to all persons unless otherwise ordered by Convention. He said that the Convention is governed by the Constitution, Canons, and Standing Rules of Order of this Diocese. He asked all speakers to identify themselves by giving their names and congregational affiliation. He further said that any "late resolution" should be given to Ms. Carol Ann Bennett, chair of the Committee on Resolutions.

The Secretary reported that there was a quorum present, at least one-third of the clergy were present and one-third of all parishes and missions were represented by at least one delegate. Ms. Deborah Musto then moved that the Agenda for the 215th Annual Convention be hereby approved as presented. The motion was passed.

Ms. Evelyn Brchan, chair of the Elections Committee, presented a slate of nominations for election:

Standing Committee: Clerical order. 4-year term

The Rev. Jennifer West.

The Rev. Canon John E. Lawrence.

Standing Committee: Lay order 4-year term

Mr. Franklyn Cook.

Ms. Virginia Chase was nominated from the floor.

Diocesan Council: Clerical order. 3-year term

The Rev. Daryl Stahl.

The Rev. Michael Lemons.

Diocesan Council: Lay order. 3-year term.

Mr. Dennis Stark.

Commission on Finance: 3-year term.

Mr. Harry Sacchetti.

Commission on Congregational Development: Clerical order. 3-year term.

The Rev. Gregory Cole.

Commission on Congregational Development: Clerical order. 2-year term.

The Rev. Philip Tierney.

Commission on Congregational Development: Lay order. 3-year term.

Mr. Richmond Robinson.

Deputy to Provincial Synod: Clerical order. 3-year term.

The Rev. Alcide Barnaby.

Deputy to Provincial Synod: Lay order. 3-year term.

Ms. Caryl Frink.

Since the number of nominees for Diocesan Council, Commission on Finance, Commission on Congregational Development, and Deputy to Provincial Synod equals the number of vacancies to be filled, Convention voted to declare those nominees elected. Convention then proceeded to vote for members of the Standing Committee.

The Bishop then introduced the seminarians of the Diocese as:

The Rev. M.P. Schneider, a middler at General Seminary.

Ms. Meaghan Kelley, a middler at Virginia Seminary

Ms. Susan Wrathall, a senior at General Seminary

Ms. Susan Carpenter, a junior at General Seminary.

Following that, she introduced those who are in the Deacon Formation Program:

Ms. Joan Collins from St. James', No. Providence.

Mr. Mark Warner from St. Paul's, No. Kingstown.

Mr. Robert Kerr from St. Peter's-by-the-Sea, Narragansett

Ms. Ricky Brightman from the Cathedral of St. John, Providence.

She then recognized the Diocesan Staff present at Convention and acknowledged the tremendous amount of work that they did in preparation for this Convention.

BISHOP'S ADDRESS TO CONVENTION 2005

My dear friends, this is my tenth address as the Bishop of Rhode Island. In February, 2006, the anniversary of my ordination and consecration, I will have served amongst you for ten years. On that glorious day in 1996, I had no idea of the amount of faith, devotion and time it takes to be a bishop. I am deeply grateful to those of you who have supported me in this holy labor and who, in very real ways, have been the backbone of prayer and ministry in our diocese. "Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies and the God whose consolation never fails us!" (2 Cor. 1:3) It is to God that we give praise and glory, the One who consoles us, supports and comforts us, and by whose Holy Spirit enflames our desire for the work of the Gospel.

Through God's gifts of consolation our common mission as a diocese has offered support, spiritual growth and relief to those in our diocese, state, and country.

+ Episcopal Charities has given $500,000 this year in support of over 100 diocesan and state programs and agencies. In addition, Charities gave a special gift of $53,000 to the three dioceses hurt by hurricanes Katrina and Rita. Hundreds of Episcopalians throughout our diocese came together to do an important and faithful mission that none of us could do alone. Just yesterday, I learned that our contributions to Episcopal relief and Development are way over $100,000.

+ Do you remember that day in May when over a thousand people squeezed into Grace Church for the Confirmation and Reception of over 200 people? With the Presiding Bishop making his official visitation, and our priests and deacons standing throughout the whole liturgy, having given their seats to others, there was a wonderful sense of being the church.

+ Did you attend the Diocesan Convocation in February, when over 200 people met at Rhode Island College to take morning and afternoon classes to increase their knowledge of the faith, and to gain skills for ministry?

+ Last year I spoke about Hispanic ministry, centered at St. George's Church, Central Falls. Very recently The Church of the Messiah became the site for a Sunday afternoon

Eucharist, celebrated by Fr. Jose, our Hispanic Missioner. Already, there is a core group of 25 worshipers, and visitors are beginning to find their way to the Church. To increase growth and outreach, Hispanic Ministry needs a part time secretary and another full-time priest.

You may not be aware of these and many other activities sponsored by the diocese. With Scott Gunn, our part-time Diocesan Communications Officer, we are investigating ways to enhance communications. I read somewhere that if you want to reach people you have to have seven different ways of communicating your message. Now, this will be a challenge.

Results of a national survey by the Episcopal Church asked each diocese: “If money were no object, what three missionary ventures would you like to pursue as a diocese?” The answer in the order given was: Congregational Development, a Camp and Conference Center, and Hispanic Ministry. I’m delighted that through apportionment and other resources we have all these and more.

Now, let me turn to Congregational Development, our theme for this Convention.

First, my gratitude to the people of the Churches of the Advent and Good Shepherd, who have decided to merge their two congregations. While some may think this is no reason to rejoice, the people of both churches and their priests are overwhelming joyful and expectant. Yes, there is sadness in closing the Advent, but both churches have exciting plans and expectations for their new life together and for mission in their section of Pawtucket. Congratulations to the people of Advent who courageously and unanimously decided that the Gospel is more important than the struggle to survive. And congratulations to the people of Good Shepherd who realized that with more people and shared resources their mission in Pawtucket would be revitalized. As a member of the vestry of the Advent said, “Church is not about buildings. It’s about doing Christ’s work.” With many parishes focused on meeting budgets and saving buildings, these two churches shine as lights upon the lamp-stand.

Several years ago, Diocesan Council adopted a resolution stating that the mission of the diocese of Rhode Island is to “focus its resources towards strengthening our faith communities in the work of proclaiming the Gospel of Jesus Christ through the ministries of the baptized.” I believe that these two churches exemplify this mission.

It is clear that we need to communicate our mission statement with greater clarity and robustness, but its truth remains. The most significant ministry occurs in the local church. Diocesan level mission is important, but I am convinced that local congregations are more effective at proclaiming the good news of God’s kingdom. Our work is not only to meet the physical needs, but also the spiritual hunger this is everywhere present in our world.

As you may know, church membership among mainline protestant denominations has been in decline since 1965. Every one of the nine provinces in the Episcopal Church lost members in 2003, the last year for which statistics are available. In fact, only thirteen of the 100 dioceses in our country have gained members. The Diocese of Rhode Island has also lost members, but I believe that there is very real hope for us.

Rhode Island has one of the highest rates of baptism of any diocese of our size: 643 children and 44 adults. But, where are these new Christians? One of our key challenges is to keep people in church after baptism, and to minister to them and their families. In addition to 687 baptisms, 226 people were confirmed and received. All told, over eight hundred people received Rites of Initiation. If even half came regularly to church, nursery or Sunday School, we would be the only growing diocese in New England, and the fifth fastest growing diocese in the country. Jesus said to the twelve, “Go to the lost sheep.” (Matthew 10:6). He was talking about the lost sheep of Israel, but we have the lost sheep of Rhode Island. I’m not referring to those who left the church for one reason or another years ago, but those who as recently as two years ago made a spiritual commitment to God and to the Church. During the liturgy the congregation was asked, “Will you support these persons in their life in Christ?” You answered, “We will.” So, one of the first steps to congregational growth is evangelizing those you already know.

These statistics reveal that we have tremendous potential. Our growth is possible, achievable, and we have the resources to make it a reality: you.

I want to say one more thing about congregational development that I’ve mentioned in almost every convention address. Christian education/formation is essential for adults.

If our goal is to share our faith, and prod the new sheep, we need to know what we believe and how to share it with others. I am strongly inviting you to go to the parish hall after the Eucharist, taking your coffee and snacks to a table, and spending at least 30 minutes each Sunday in Christian formation. What makes you a follower of Christ in the Episcopal/Anglican tradition? The Diocesan Resource Center has great materials for you to borrow. You'll be much better informed. Your confidence in sharing the faith will increase, and you'll get to know other members of the church much more deeply than is possible at a regular coffee hour. Remember your confirmation class may have been excellent, but you're not fourteen any more.

All of this is good news, and our future is hopeful. After lunch, Dr. James Segovis will present the Bridgebuilders Report assessing the life and ministry of our diocese, and commending ways to enrich our life. Eighteen people, representing different opinions and churches, met regularly over the course of two years to listen to concerns expressed by those who voluntarily participated in a series of meetings. Dr. Segovis will explain the process, but it is my privilege to offer sincere gratitude to the members of the committee, and to Dr. Segovis, the Chair.

I confess to you, that the parts of the Bridgebuilders' Report that criticized my ministry were painful to hear. However, life has taught me not to become fixated on my sins or the sins and shortcomings of others. Though I think that I've made progress, I am well aware that I'm still a sinner. It is through God's grace that I am not a slave to sin. And since we have all come short of God's glory there is some consolation in knowing that I am not alone.

Paul's second letter to the Church in Corinth brings hope to all of us: "For anyone united to Christ, there is a new creation: the old order has gone: a new order has already begun. All this has been the work of God. He has reconciled us to himself through Christ, and has enlisted us in this ministry of reconciliation. We are therefore Christ's ambassadors. ...we implore you in Christ's name, be reconciled to God!" (2Cor.5:17, NRSV)

In the end, it is reconciliation in Christ that sets us free. I am enormously encouraged by the suggestions for action that the report conveys, and the decision of Diocesan Council to vigorously prioritize and implement the ideas expressed in the report. I am very supportive of their work, and gladly look forward to participating with them in a task-centered process that will enhance the health and vitality of our diocese. With the support and encouragement of the Standing Committee, our first goal is reconciliation.

As a member of the Anglican Communion and the Episcopal House of Bishops, I continue to experience the tension inherent in the issues facing our Episcopal Church and Anglican Communion. In both our Diocese and the Church at large, the challenge of reconciliation is strong. I think we all realize that in the visible church there is imperfection, sin, and internal conflicts on every level. The visible Church includes sinners and saints, wheat and weeds, good fish and bad fish. So one thing that we must accept as our reality, is that anxiety and division in the church visible is inevitable. Whenever two or three are gathered together, there may be trouble! But I invite you to think of another church, the church mystical, whose membership is determined by Christ. It is he who does the sorting at the end of time, and whose judgment we trust. St. Augustine warned the church when he said, “They went off because they set their idea of perfection above unity. And that is why everything else is empty.” Indeed, we are being stretched unlike anything since the early councils of the Church and the Reformation, yet, we are called to be ever-faithful in our quest for unity. Unity does not mean that we arrive at some imaginary point where we hold the same opinions and beliefs, but that we honor our common life in Christ.

Forgiveness and reconciliation are costly and complex enterprises, when different ideas and temperaments live in the same house. While we desire quick answers, reconciliation is an evolutionary undertaking. It is neither expedient nor cheap. The cost of reconciliation requires new ways of collaboration that call everyone to modify their previous judgments regarding the other, without having to alter their deepest held beliefs. It is a sharing of perceptions, which may or not may not be true. It is a call to move beyond gossip, fixation and extended blows. The source of conflict is a layered reality. It’s not just one event or one person. It always contains sin and sometimes is the work of the Evil One. The presenting issue may be addressed and mediated, but the real challenge is to uncover the veiled layers that are the cause of systemic bottleneck. As Jesus taught us, we are not to throw stones at the sinner, but to acknowledge our own sin and be reconciled to God. (John 8:2ff) In the end, Christian reconciliation is “not simply a matter of giving each person their due but is really to give God “God’s” due, by building a world and a Church that God's all-embracing forgiveness demands." (Philip Sheldrake, A Spirituality of Reconciliation. Oxford University, professor and author)

First and foremost we are called to be reconciled to God. It is out of this reconciliation with Christ that we are given the grace to be reconciled to one another.

If now is a time of conflict and darkness in our Communion, and I dare say in our families, parishes and diocese, then let us turn to Jesus, the light shining in the darkness. If Christians cannot build a road to reconciliation, what do we have to offer to communities and nations at war, and millions of children dying from AIDS related diseases. If we cannot move from petty squabbles, the plank in our own eye will overtake our vision.

Later in this convention, we will address a resolution asking for our support for the Windsor Report. Remember, it is not legislation, but a document that awakens us to the demands of unity at this time in the life of our Anglican Communion. It begs us to ask what are the limits of difference in the church, is it possible to maintain bonds of affection, and what models of authority may be necessary as our church continues to become an international community. The authors of the report represented a broad spectrum of theological opinion, and each had to make compromises to arrive at the report they unanimously endorsed. Regardless of the outcome of the vote today, I commend every congregation to study the Report before General Convention so that you may become familiar with the concerns of the wider Communion, and the place of the Episcopal Church in these deliberations.

When we received the sacrament of the Eucharist this morning, we were not primarily a community of likeable people. We gathered as a community of sinners, forgiven and humbled to receive Christ's very Body and Blood. All of us spend much time looking in the wrong direction. When our focus is on Christ's beauty we begin to see his reflection in the faces of others.

Christ of the Eucharist "nourishes us with living bread, and converts us to become a loving people." (paraphrase, Pope Benedict XVI, Homily at the Close of the Year of the Eucharist).

I pray that God's love will lead us into the reconciliation that we cannot find on our own. I pray for our diocese, that we may embrace the baptized and confirmed, and nurture them in the faith. I pray for courage and faithfulness for those parishes and missions who are weighed down by many cares that the Holy Spirit may lead them to discover creative and imaginative ways to reinvigorate their ministry. I give thanks for the profound dedication of my staff, whose labors cannot be numbered, remembering especially Ron Turnbull who celebrated his 65th birthday this year.

My dear friends, I am very grateful for your love and affection, and re-dedicate myself to the ministry we share. We have much work to do in the name of the one who redeems and saves humanity. On our own it would be impossible, with Jesus we work under the gift of sacred grace. Amen.

Necrology

In particular at this time we remember the following persons, deceased during this past year, who have meant so much to us and to their several congregations. May the souls of these faithful departed rest in peace, O Lord.

CONTINUING EDUCATION COMMITTEE

The Continuing Education Committee dispenses grants to clergy serving in churches of the Diocese of Rhode Island who wish to engage in specific continuing education programs that will benefit their parochial ministries. The Committee normally meets as needed to respond to applications or by “polling” members of the committee by e-mail as needed. The grant moneys come from restricted endowment funds and grants must conform to the terms of the restrictions and to the policies guiding the Committee.

In September of 2005, the Committee reviewed and updated the “Policy and Guidelines” which had not be updated since November, 2000.

In 2005 a total of $8,472.00 was granted to twelve (12) clergy for the purpose of continuing education and/or sabbaticals.

Respectfully submitted,
The Rt. Rev. David B. Joslin
Assisting Bishop

CLERGY DEPLOYMENT - 2005

The work of the Deployment Officer is to be an extension of the Bishop’s ministry of oversight especially with respect to the stewardship of ordained ministers and the congregations that they serve. The function of the Deployment Officer is to counsel clergy on their individual career, vocational and deployment needs; advise and guide congregations in times of transition; manage the diocesan calling process working with the interim clergy and consultants; and maintain diocesan contact with regional and national groups such as the Church Deployment Office, the Deployment Ministry Network, and the Province One Deployment Officers.

During the year 2005, we had 21 of our congregations in transition. During the year we welcomed to the Diocese the following clergy: the Rev. Terry Matthews, Vicar of St. Ann’s by-the-Sea, Block Island; the Rev. Alan Gates, Assistant to the Rector of St. Paul’s Church, Wickford; The Rev. Peter Mayer, Rector of Emmanuel Church, Cumberland; the Rev. Clare Fischer-Davies, Rector of St. Martin’s Church, Providence; the Rev. Marc Dobson, Rector of St. Mary’s Church in Warwick. In addition, the Rev. Scott Gunn became Assistant to the Rector at St. Michael and Grace in Rumford as well as Communications Officer of the Diocese; the Rev. Cn. Richard Bardusch assumed the position of Rector of Church of the Messiah, Providence in addition to his role as Canon for Congregational Development and Missions, and the Rev. Joyce Penfield became Priest-in-Charge of St. Peter’s and St. Andrew’s in Providence, in addition to her duties as Chaplain at the ACI. The Rev. Canon Harry E. Krauss is serving as Acting Dean of the Cathedral of St. John in Providence.

COMMISSION ON CONGREGATIONAL DEVELOPMENT 2005

In April of 2005 we completed the Saturday training sessions for the twelve congregations (Calvary Church, Pascoag; Christ Church, Coventry; Church of the Holy Spirit, Charleston; Emmanuel Church, Newport; Church of the Epiphany, Providence; Church of St. Peter and St. Andrew, Providence; Church of the Messiah, Providence; St. Alban's Church, Centredale; St. David's on the Hill, Cranston; St. George's Church, Newport; St. Luke's Church, Pawtucket; and Trinity Church, North Scituate) committed to participate in the pilot program for Transforming Congregations called The Learning Community.

Each congregation sent a leadership team to attend sessions led by national and regional experts and our strategy is to gracefully transform the vision and increase the skills of these leadership teams, both clergy and lay, who will in turn lead their parishes through the changes to grow and thrive. The goal of this initial phase is for each church to implement a plan of action.

Every church has the common goal of fulfilling the Great Commission to "Go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit,...teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you". Each congregation has gifts, talents, and neighborhood demographics unique to their parish and it is our hope that each of the participating congregations will develop a clearly defined ministry plan for moving forward into Health and Growth.

Of the twelve churches which participated, seven wrote plans for moving forward. By the end of 2005 three of those churches were actively walking in their plans (Calvary, Emmanuel, Messiah); four are re-working their plans (Epiphany, St. David's, St. Alban's, St. George's). Three churches dropped out-two because they lost their priest midway through (Sts Peter & Andrew, Church of the Holy Spirit) and one (Christ Church) because the energy and desire to move forward was not there. Two churches (St. Luke's, Trinity) continue to work on a plan.

These congregations continue to receive guidance from the Commission and may apply for matching grants to fund new initiatives once their plan has been received and accepted by CDC.

We welcomed to the Commission the Rev. Gregory Cole, the Rev. Philip Tierney, the Rev. Pamela Mott, and John Bilotta who were elected or confirmed at Convention 2005.

In the second half of 2005 CDC members reviewed every aspect of the pilot Learning Community program and began to plan for the second Learning Community which begins in October of 2006.

THE COMMISSION ON MINISTRY

According to the Canons of the Church, the Commission on Ministry advises and assists the Bishop of the Diocese concerning the ministry of the church. It is important to note that this includes both lay and ordained ministry. While the twelve members of the Commission share countless hours in service to the church, these members only scratch the surface of their mandate. With an ever increasing number of members of the Diocese who are a part of the ordination “process” (which stretches from discernment to ordination), in the past year we began a discussion on the implementation of the “licensed” ministries of the church, clearly a part of the ministry of the laity.

From Discernment to Ordination

Thanks to effective feedback, our discernment program continues to improve and draw members of the Diocese who wish to converse with God as to their calling. The program, which meets monthly from September to April, had ten participants from six parishes. Of particular interest was one participant who entered the program to converse with God concerning the shape of his lay ministry. One part of the program has participants meet with a small number of trained “discerners.” This is called the Discernment Team. In order to strengthen the Discernment Teams, individuals were chosen from the Diocese who participated in the “Listening Hearts” training process, which met over two weekends this fall with Suzanne Farnham of Baltimore, Maryland. Special thanks should go to Annette Cox, who oversaw the Discernment process from start to finish.

Within the ordination process itself, there are two categories prescribed by canon. Postulancy is the first step, followed by candidacy. In addition, we have the Rev. M.P. (Empy) Schneider, a permanent deacon, who is testing a call to priesthood. Emphy is in her Middler (second) year at General Theological Seminary in New York City. At the end of 2005 we had the following Postulants for Holy Orders:

Dennis Bucco (St. Barnabas’, Warwick); Priesthood; Boston University School of Theology
Susan Carpenter (Trinity, North Scituate); Priesthood; General Seminary
Joan Dorney Collins (St. James’, North Providence); Permanent Diaconate;
Deacon
Formation Program
Meaghan Kelly (Grace, Providence); Priesthood; Virginia Seminary
Mark Warter (St. Paul’s, Wickford); Permanent Diaconate; Deacon Formation Program

At the end of 2005 we had the following Candidates for Holy Orders:

Ricky Brightman (Cathedral of St. John, Providence); Permanent Diaconate;
Deacon Formation Program
Susan Wrathall (St. Paul’s, Wickford); Priesthood; General Seminary

We note with joy, that Scott Gunn was ordained to the diaconate and priesthood in 2005 and we note with sadness that Robert Kerr, a postulant for Holy Orders for the Permanent Diaconate, died in 2005.

Other Issues

The Commission continues to work on major, ongoing issues. Under the direction of the Dean, the Rev. Wayne Runner, a new Deacon Formation Program was formed. This ministry went through an extensive planning phase that led to an opening in September. The mission statement is as follows: “The mission of diaconal formation in the Diocese of Rhode Island is, under the direction of the Bishop, to aid the postulant in developing his or her ability to model the servant ministry of Christ and to inspire it in others.” This three-year program meets one Saturday a month during the academic year. Teachers are experienced clergy from the Diocese of Rhode Island

The Commission had a retreat day at May Cottage in June and began to share our spiritual autobiographies with one another in much the same way as members of the discernment group shares theirs with the Commission. Bishop Wolf attended and we discussed the future direction of licensed ministries with the Diocese.

Thanks to the generosity of many persons who made contributions in memory of the Rev. Steele Martin, long-time priest of the Diocese, we initiated the Rev. Steele Martin Education Fund for the purpose of aiding seminarians in financing the cost of their seminary education. We are continuing to work on developing this fund so that it can be an effective tool for the Diocese.

Respectfully submitted,

The Rev. John Van Siclen, Commission on Ministry

COMMITTEE ON SUPPLEMENTARY BENEFITS (Diocese of Rhode Island – Canon 7.1)

Due to the generosity of Episcopalians of previous generations, the Diocese has a fund which can assist retired clergy and their surviving spouses in maintaining health insurance. The fund does not request or receive funding from the Diocesan Budget.

While the fund does not produce enough income to guarantee any benefit to clergy as an “earned right,” it can, however, help some of our clergy whose income is such that it cannot provide adequate health insurance. The Commission meets quarterly to review applications and the status of its funds. In 2005, 31 persons benefited from the fund with grants totaling approximately $51,000.

Current policies regarding the fund are as follows:

- ❖ To receive assistance an applicant must be a cleric who is canonically resident in the Diocese of Rhode Island for five (5) years or more, be under no ecclesiastical discipline, and have retired from a paid full-time church position which put him/her on the Diocese of Rhode Island's health plan before retirement.
- ❖ There is no eligibility for assistance for early retirement (before age 65) unless retirement is caused by disability.
- ❖ The only assistance currently available is health insurance. Health insurance here means participation in the coverage offered by the Church Medical Trust of the Church Pension Fund. Upon the applicant's being found eligible, the Commission will defray the cost for him/her and spouse in the Church Medical Trust Premium Plan which is a supplement to Medicare coverage. The retirees will be expected to pay Part B, Medicare Coverage, which is deducted from social security payments.
- ❖ Exceptions to these policies will be considered by the Commission overseeing this Fund in cases of extreme hardship upon receipt of application for assistance.
- ❖ Upon retirement and in any (or every) year thereafter, a statement of need may be required by the Commission.

Currently the Commission consists of the Revs. Harrington M. Gordon, J. Daniel Burke, Everett H. Greene, Ms. Marilyn Sayles and Ms. Nancy Brown.

Everett H. Greene, Chair

Congratulations are extended to the agencies funded through Episcopal Charities for their commitment to deliver the valuable services given to the people of Rhode Island who are in crisis and need.

The Susan Hudson Memorial Fund awarded grants totaling $32,700 to the Comprehensive Community Action Program in Warwick, Crossroads Rhode Island in Providence, United Methodist Elder Care Program in East Providence, The Blessing Way and Rhode Island State Council of Churches – “Youth Link Program”. Funds totaling $30,000 from the Episcopal Charities Fund Balance was sent to the Diocese of Louisiana, Diocese of Mississippi and the Diocese of Alabama ($10,000 for each diocese) for relief in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina. An additional $24,000 was also sent to these dioceses ($8,000 each) for Hurricane Katrina efforts through a separate fundraising effort through the Episcopal Charities Office.

In total, the Episcopal Charities Fund of Rhode Island dispersed $586,745 to assist people in crisis, need and desperate situations for the year 2005.

The volunteers and donors of Episcopal Charities deserve gratitude and recognition for their work, dedication and support. Special thanks are extended to Mayor Scott Avedisian of Trinity Church, Cranston, Carol Keiser of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Pawtucket, Nancy Kaull of St. Luke’s, East Greenwich, and The Rev. Austin Almon (Skip) for their outstanding campaign leadership. Gratitude and appreciation is extended to all the members of the Board of Trustees for their dedication and commitment to the mission of Episcopal Charities. The Board extends its thanks and appreciation to Diane Evans, Episcopal Charities Assistant, for her continued efforts and support to our donors, volunteers, the Board, and the people of our Diocese.

The Bishop Higgins Award for distinguished and meritorious service on behalf of Episcopal Charities was presented to Mayor Scott Avedisian of Trinity Church, Cranston, and Peggy Amatore, Executive Director of the Episcopal Charities Fund of Rhode Island. Mayor Avedisian has been a life-long Episcopalian and has served his church, the Diocese and the Rhode Island community through dedicated and committed leadership roles. Peggy was recognized with the Bishop Higgins Award in honor and appreciation of her 25 years of service and commitment to the mission of Episcopal Charities and the Diocese of Rhode Island. The Board is grateful to the Mayor and Peggy for their sense of responsibility to help their neighbors across this state.

National Philanthropy Day was held in November, 2005. Organizations throughout Rhode Island had an opportunity to honor their valued volunteers as “Partners in Philanthropy”. Jean Knowles of Trinity Church, Cranston, and Charlene Underhill of Church of St. Michael and Grace, Rumford, were named “Partners in Philanthropy” of the Episcopal Charities Fund of Rhode Island for many years of outstanding service and dedication. They continue to serve their church, the Diocese, Episcopal Charities and their community.

MINISTRY TO THE DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS - ACI

The Episcopal Diocese of RI and Episcopal Charities support a ¾ time Chaplaincy at the Adult Correctional Institution (ACI). The goals of this ministry are: to address the pastoral, liturgical, spiritual, and theological needs of the church and the unchurched; to help incarcerated men and women encounter the love of Christ and to be a witness to the healing and restoration of hope, mercy, and forgiveness which is offered by Christ to all. Thanks to the prayers and support of those in parishes and our Diocese, the prodigal sons and daughters of our state are invited back home to be our neighbors through the hope of restoration and healing that is offered them.

Indirectly the Chaplaincy also benefits parishes and clergy in Rhode Island. The Chaplain helps clergy with parish members who get arrested to negotiate this system and she also pays courtesy visits to their parish members, even though they are housed in units which are supervised by other Chaplains. Family members of those incarcerated also benefit because the Chaplain ministers to them by phone at times of crisis, such as, death or serious illness of a relative.

Rev. Joyce Penfield, an Episcopal priest in RI, who is canonically resident in Rhode Island and has over 13 years of prison ministry experience in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York state, and Rhode Island, works with a team of 5 other part-time Chaplains (1 Protestant, 4 Roman Catholic, 1 Muslim) in 7 different units which comprise the ACI system to serve a resident population of 3,700. A total of 16,000 men and women are admitted to ACI each year. In one year, about 5,000 reside in the units which Chaplain Penfield is responsible for supervising.

The residents at ACI typically enter with a multiplicity of problems: poverty, undereducation, lack of legitimate job skills, and mental health needs. Over 12 per cent have serious mental needs and at least 70% of the residents have a substance abuse problem which often led to their criminal behavior or the acts for which they are serving time. Of the women, the majority come from abusive family/spouse backgrounds or parents who themselves suffered from substance abuse problems or were incarcerated. Despite the many regulations and nature of prison which hinder getting these needs addressed during incarceration and despite the very oppressive nature of the system of prison itself, God's transforming love and mercy does shine through this gloomy scene with the help of religious volunteers, mentors, drug treatment programs in selected facilities, and the work of Chaplains.

Chaplain Penfield serves as Institutional Chaplain of the 2 Women's Facilities and Men's Minimum/Work Release which means she recruits, trains, and supervises all religious schedules and volunteers of all denominations for these 3 units. She has tried to create a balance of religious programs, introducing courses on spirituality and self-understanding/emotional literacy; setting goals; nonviolence; and healthy relationships.

In addition to one-on-one counseling and confessions, Chaplain Penfield offers a weekly worship service at 4 different facilities; a weekly meditation circle in both women's units; bi-annual instruction for baptism and an Inquirer's course in 4 facilities; and special memorial services for inmates who die or for ex-offenders who die after being released. (In the past 10 years, over 120 women have died within months of their release.)

Another major activity of this Chaplaincy are spiritually-based courses which focus on: self-understanding, emotional growth and spirituality for those in recovery from addiction and/or abuse. Two of these courses, Houses of Healing, and Boundaries for Healthy Relationships, are nationally recognized and are also very popular with the inmates. Such courses provide an opportunity to deepen relationships with inmates and to offer pastoral counseling to a larger number of inmates than one on one counseling affords. Chaplain Penfield teaches 18-20 of these courses per year.

Card and eyeglasses ministry is another important activity of the Chaplaincy. Inmates receive a birthday card each year. Eyeglasses and greeting cards are also provided by the Chaplain upon request by inmates in need. Many parishes in the Diocese have helped by donating cards—always needed and appreciated by the women and men inside. The Chaplaincy also organizes the Angel Tree project each year which helps local parishes provide gifts for children of inmates.

The activities of worship, Baptism, pastoral crisis/grief counseling, spirituality and healing courses, faith oriented courses for the unchurched, supervision of volunteers, card and eyeglasses ministry, and administrative work makes for a very busy and active Chaplaincy as indicated by a few numbers below:

Thank you for making the servant ministry of the Chaplaincy a reality.

In Christ,

EPISCOPAL CAMP & CONFERENCE CENTER - 2005

Spirit of ECC

The Episcopal Conference Center is located in the northwest corner of Rhode Island. ECC occupies 186 rural acres in the woods of Burrville/Glocester. ECC is a center for Christian ministry for youth and adults; ECC includes a residential summer camp program and year round conference facility available to members of our diocese and anyone else who is interested in furthering their spiritual journey. The conference center is also available to be rented for secular groups. ECC is a community built on respect, shared responsibility and ownership by all participating members.

Our mission statement is as follows: ECC is a place where youth and adults are formed, nurtured, and sent forth as faithful Christians by working, studying, serving, and living the Gospel in community. ECC is the spiritual home for Rhode Islanders of all ages who have found God through the experience of worship, nature and a community built on trust. ECC provides a place where people come to explore their faith and experience the risen Christ while living and working in community with others.

Conference Program

The winter youth program of the Conference Center includes eight weekend conferences for teens. For each conference we have the capacity to house up to 55 teens. Adult staff leaders and chaperones are housed in the Wing. In 2005 our teen conferences were led by a variety of clergy and lay people from throughout the diocese including The Rev. Deacon Gail Wheelock, The Rev. Judy Mitchell, The Rev. and Mrs. John Hall and The Rev. Beth Sherman. We were happy to welcome The Rev. Alan Gates to ECC as a first time conference leader in November. We offered a wide range of topics in 2005 including, Masks, Does Peace Have a Chance and, What a Friend! For the first time, we offered a weekend conference for 6-9th graders in December which was entitled Celebrate the Season where we examined the meaning of Christmas and gift giving. We also made cards and placemats for nursing home residents. It was a wonderful new conference for us. Each conference weekend is staffed by members of the ECC year round adult staff and volunteer young people who worked as counselors in the previous summer. We are very fortunate that our summer camp nurse, Jeanne Mason continues to volunteer her professional services to us for every conference weekend we have at ECC. Jeanne's services and commitment are invaluable to us at ECC. We also held a conference for Young Adults in January while college students were home and on break from school.

In 2005 we again held our two new programs. During February school vacation week we held Winter Camp for children in grades 6-8. We offered a variety of activities including workshops in Art, Drama, Cooking, Creative Writing, Sports and Yoga. The Rev. Beth Sherman was our Chaplain for the week and several adults volunteered their time to lead projects. We were fully enrolled and we all had a wonderful time. Winter Camp has become something both parents and their children look forward to! The second new program we continued was Family Camp. Family Camp was open to families from all over the diocese and was held over Memorial Day Weekend. Families slept in cabins, did craft activities, went canoeing, enjoyed singing and worship and participated in an all camp Scavenger Hunt! We are grateful to Mike Audette for his leadership of Family Camp.

Summer Program

Planning for the ECC summer program begins as soon as the previous summer ends with recruiting of volunteers and setting up learning opportunities. Staff training begins in January with an overnight gathering of the upcoming Full Counselors and permanent staff. Training for the entire summer staff begins with a training weekend in April where everyone is gathered to prepare for the coming summer. The summer staff gathers in June to further prepare at ECC with a five day intensive training session before campers arrive for the summer.

Our summer program offered eight weeks of residential summer camping. We filled 647 camper slots in 2005. This was comparable to our enrollment in 2004.

Our summer program is staffed by approximately sixty young people who serve in a variety of roles necessary to staff a program of our size. Our staff is selected from current campers and important emphasis is placed on selection and training of our staff. Most staff members return to work at ECC for several summers and are dedicated to the mission and ministry of the conference center. ECC staff members range in age from 16-60.

We made significant changes in our summer camp schedule in 2005 to allow for more breaks for staff in between camp sessions. Most camp weeks ended early on Friday evening, with the staff arriving home later that night and having a full day and night off on Saturday before returning to camp Sunday afternoon. This change in schedule was also designed to be more in line with the work schedules of parents.

ECC has been blessed with the support and commitment of a talented group of clergy and alumni who volunteer to live at ECC for one week at a time each summer to be part of the program staff. They volunteer to work as project leaders, chaplains, workshop leaders, discussion group leaders, musicians and anything else that is needed. The talents and creativity of these adults provided a wonderfully rich support to our summer program.

Adults at ECC

ECC offers many opportunities for adults. The vestries of parishes may come to ECC for a day or two of reflection and planning. Retreats offer opportunities for spiritual growth and there are several organizations within the Diocese that utilize the sacred space offered at ECC. ECC accommodates groups of 20 to 120, with facilities available in heated cabins and the wing. We have a number of secular groups in addition to our church related bookings. There is consistent high praise for the hospitality of ECC.

Our weekend bookings were on the rise in 2005. Our Resident Manager Joyce Roberts welcomed groups from several of our local colleges and universities as well as groups from our diocesan parishes. In 2005 ECC also hosted two weekend weddings. One of the weddings was held outside on the lawn with the reception with dinner and dancing held in the outdoor Pavilion. A second wedding was held at ECC over Columbus Day weekend. Guests stayed overnight in the Wing and in cabins celebrating with a cookout in the Pavilion one night and a formal wedding reception for 160 in the Barn the next night.

Use of the Florence Pierce Grant House which is located in a corner of the ECC property increased in 2005. The house was used by clergy and their families as a convenient get-away and retreat. Grant House was also utilized on a fairly regular basis by some small vestry and EFM groups for day-long retreats and meetings. Grant House was also used to accommodate long-term housing needs for clergy. Arrangements were all made through Joyce Roberts, the ECC Resident Manager.

Ministry with others

City Camp is a significant outreach project administered by the Episcopal Conference Center during the summer months. City Camp is our inner city day camp operated out of the Olneyville section of Providence. Ms. Becky Binns served as Director of City Camp in 2005. Becky has a BA in Art Education from RI and countless years of experience as a camp counselor and staff member at ECC. City Camp served 150 children between the ages of 6-12 in four two-week camping periods. Some days were spent in the city based at Nickerson House and the Joslin Center Community Pool, while other days the campers are bussed to places like Scarborough Beach, Pulaski Park, the Children's Museum, Mystic Aquarium and ECC. ECC counselors and our City Camp Coordinator work along with the Director and a Bi-Lingual adult to provide quality and safe programming to all City Campers. Funding for City Camp is provided through grants from Episcopal Charities and other foundations, and gifts from parishes, businesses and individuals.

A major fund raiser was held for City Camp in 2005. Sara Clarke chaired a committee that held a wonderful "Moonlit Gala" in the RI State House in November. The evening included dinner, dancing, socializing and a live and silent auction. The event was a wonderful celebration of the work done at City Camp. $10,000 was raised at this single event! We are very grateful to all who supported our efforts!

The Episcopal Conference Center is a member of the Rhode Island Association of Camps and is associated with the American Camping Association. ECC is also a member of the national organization of Episcopal Camp and Conference Centers (ECCC) and attends their annual conference in January of each year.

ECC and the Diocese

The ECC Task Force that was commissioned by Bishop Wolf in 2003 finished their review of the Episcopal Conference Center and delivered their report to Bishop Wolf in April. The Task Force was made up of 12 members that included members of the ECC staff, members of diocesan staff and others from various areas of the diocese.

The Task Force report gives a thorough review of ECC's past, present and future with detailed recommendations for long and short term goals. The report was very affirming of the work done at ECC and supportive of this important work continuing and being affirmed by the diocese. The ECC Task Force report was available online on the diocesan website for several months.

The Property of ECC

In 2005 we continued our work to upgrade the ECC facilities in accordance with the changes in the RI fire code. Our Property Manager, Lance Roberts worked in cooperation with the Pascoag fire department.

We also refurbished 3 of our older cabins in the girl's area by building in wooden bunks, replacing wall boards and floor boards and improving the lighting. This project was undertaken by a prospective Eagle Scout under the supervision of our Property Manager. The results were well received by campers and parents.

A new winterized cabin was built in upper area by the family of the late Byron Peter Harrington to honor him. Much of the work was done by friends and family of the deceased. Lance again handled much of the planning, supervision and "finish work" required to complete the cabin.

Improvements were also made to our conference room. The conference room is now carpeted and has comfortable chairs for everyone. The dining room has pretty sage green curtains and table cloths and an attractive buffet for storage of mugs and plates.

ECC Memorial Fund

In 2005 we continued to receive contributions to the ECC memorial scholarship fund. This fund provides scholarship assistance for summer camps and for those attending ECC youth conferences during the school year who would not otherwise be able to afford to come to ECC. At ECC we are committed to keeping opportunities for ministry to young people affordable for all who are interested in attending the conference center. Contributions to the scholarship fund continue to make this possible.

ECC Annual Fund Drive

2005 marks the fifth year of the ECC Annual Fund Drive. Donations to the ECC Annual Fund Drive for 2005 were approximately $7,000. We are grateful to people from all around the diocese who support this campaign.

Thanksgiving

We at ECC continue to be grateful to the Diocese of Rhode Island and Episcopal Charities for their generous and sustained support throughout the years. Their support makes it possible for us to continue our ministry to the diocese and in particular to young people.

Staffing

At the end of 2005 Bishop Wolf accepted the resignation of ECC Director, Susan Henthorne Kelley. Susan has served as a member of the full-time permanent staff of ECC since the spring of 1992. As the year comes to a close, Bishop Wolf is searching for an interim Camp Director to serve for at least a year while a search committee works to find a new Director for ECC. Other members of the year round staff have agreed to take over some of Susan's responsibilities to make for a smooth transition.
